Britain since 1945. Labour and the welfare state (1945-51). Labour rejoiced at its political triumph, the first independent parliamentary majority in the party's history, but it faced grave problems. The war had stripped Britain of virtually all its foreign financial resources, and the country had built up "sterling credits" debts owed to other countries that would have to be paid in foreign currencies amounting to several billion pounds. Further British compromise became inevitable when the Japanese in the spring of 1942 swept through Burma to the eastern borders of India while also organizing in Singapore a large Indian National Army and issuing appeals to Asian nationalism.
