JETED a peer-reviewed journal, focuses on international economics, economic development and, more importantly, the interface between trade and development. The links between trade and development economics are critical at a time when both fluctuating commodity prices and trade liberalization and agreements can radically affect the economic development countries.

JETED aims to meet the needs of international and development economists, economic historians, applied economists and policy makers. The international experts who make up the journal's Editorial Board encourage contributions from economists worldwide.

JETED contains:
- Historical and applied issues in international and development economics
- Economic applications of trade and development issues based on sound theoretical economic models or testing fundamental economic hypotheses
- Models of structural change
- Trade and development issues of economics in Eastern Europe, Asia and the Pacific area
- Papers on specific topics
- Review articles on important branches of the literature.

Notes for Contributors
All submissions should be made online at the journal's International Trade & Economic Development Manuscript Central site (link to http://mc.manuscriptcentral.com). New users should first create an account. Once a user is logged into the site, submissions should be made via the Author Centre.

Authors should prepare and upload two versions of their manuscript. One should be a complete text, while in the second all document information identifying the author should be removed from files to allow them to be sent anonymously to referees. When uploading files, authors will have the ability to define the anonymous version as ‘File for review’ when submitting your manuscript, please upload all of your original source files.

A submission to the journal will be taken to indicate that if a previous unpublished work meets the submission criteria, the author agrees that the paper is original, unpublished work not under consideration for publication elsewhere. By submitting a manuscript, the author agrees to use the copyright and reprints information as indicated by the last few issues of the Journal.

For acceptance for publication, authors will be requested to provide a copy of their paper in exact accordance with the conventions listed in the preceding notes. If the final version of the paper is not submitted in accordance with these conventions then publication may be delayed by the need to return manuscripts to authors for necessary revisions. Authors should note that, following acceptance for publication, they will be required to provide not only a hard copy of the final version, but also a copy on a vio-free disk, preferably in MS-Word format or as a Latex file, if possible. Authors sending a Latex file should also supply a vio version. Authors will also be required to complete a Publishing Agreement form assigning copyright to the Publisher.

Page proofs will be sent for correction to a first-named author, unless otherwise requested. The difficulty and expense involved in making amendments at the page proof stage make it essential for authors to prepare their typescript carefully. Alteration to the original text is strongly discouraged.

It is a condition of publication that authors assign copyright or license the publication rights in their articles, including abstracts, to Taylor & Francis. This enables us to ensure that articles are not subject to prior publication elsewhere. By submitting a manuscript, the author confirms that they have not published or have never submitted the same material to any other publication.

References published in the same year, add lower case letters to the end of the article. The content and format should conform to the following examples.

Unattributed notes, please refer to the usual custom and practice as indicated by the last few issues of the Journal.

The links between trade and development economics are critical at a time when fluctuating commodity prices, ongoing production fragmentation, and trade liberalisation can radically affect the economies of advanced and developing countries. Our aim is to keep in touch with the latest developments in research as well as setting the agenda for future analysis. JITED is designed to meet the needs of international and development economists, economic historians, applied economists, and policy makers. The international experts who make up the journal’s Editorial Board encourage contributions from economists world-wide. Homepage. How to publish in this journal. The International trade and economics is also called International business and trade or International economy and trade. Program seeks to develop capabilities for sustainable and competitive managerial decision making. Continuous globalization processes of domestic economies have led to a situation where firms must face and comprehend the impact from global production and trade networks. International markets are in constant flux as the global business environment changes with political and economic developments. Companies need to stay on top of who their competition is, who is purchasing their products, and where the opportunities for growth are.
