The offerings in "The Great Liberation" contain a path which is rich in the wealth of imagery and symbolism yet somehow free from the spiritual materialism which often taints "Best Practice" teachings. If you liked "Monkey Magic", you will adore the multiplicity of yarns about the life of Padma Sambhava. The Chinese appropriation of Tibet has caused much much misery and suffering. It seems somehow criminal that we in the West may now benefit from the scattering of Tibetan refugees by having access to such wonderful teachings, even as laymen (and in English too). The Tibetan Book of the Great Liberation, which was unknown to the Western world until its first publication in 1954, speaks to the quintessence of the Supreme Path, or Mahayana, and fully reveals the yogic method of attaining Enlightenment. Such attainment can happen, as shown here, by means of knowing the One Mind, the cosmic All-Consciousness, without recourse to the postures, breathings, and other techniques associated with the lower yogas. The original text for this volume belongs to the Bardo Thodol series of treatises concerning various ways of achieving transcendence, a series that fig The Tibetan Book Of The Great Liberation - Or -the Method Of Realizing Nirvana Through Knowing The Mind. Includes: The Epitome Of The Great Guru's Biography or "Padma's Precepts" and The Last Teachings Of Phadampa Sangay. These teachings called "The Knowing of the Mind in Its Self-Identifying, Self-Realizing, Self-Liberating Reality" were formulated by Padma-Sambhava, the spiritually endowed. Teacher from Urygan. May they not wane until the whole Sangsara is emptied.
