ME 745 Leading the Church for the Unchurched

Fall, 2003
School of World Mission and Evangelism,
Asbury Theological Seminary
Instructor: George Hunter

I. Course Description

A study of the driving “paradigm”, main agenda, and known dynamics of “Seeker,” “Missional” or “Apostolic” congregations, mainly in the Western world, with emphasis upon “outreach ministries,” building “apostolic congregations,” transitioning traditional congregations, and increasing the effectiveness of churches in their total mission; with substantial attention to the relevant leadership and management issues.

II. Course Objectives

1. To understand theories relevant to effective organization leadership and change.
2. To develop approaches for analyzing a church, and discerning its options.
3. To explore, from "paradigm theory," the essential nature of the “apostolic congregation" and its contemporary forms.
4. To learn skills, interventions, and strategies for leading churches "from tradition to mission."
5. To apply leadership and management lore to church turn-around and growth.
6. To contribute to what is known about effective leadership of the Christian movement.

III. Reading Assignments

Masters degree students are expected to read four assigned textbooks, and two collateral texts; doctoral students are expected to read the same four assigned texts, and four collateral texts, and (if they declare a Church and Mission Leadership major) the texts by Bennis and Nanus, Kouzes and Posner, Drucker, and Hunter's Church for the Unchurched—for Qualifying
Exams. All students are also expected to study any readings for the course posted on the ESJ part of the ATS website. (If you have any difficulty accessing them, call Julee Bellar at 858-2259.)

IV. Requirements and Assignments

The instructor expects the student to accept responsibility for her/his own learning. This responsibility will normally be exercised through:

A. Regular and involved class attendance.
B. Thorough reading of assignments and collateral literature.
C. Submission to the ESJ office, by “high noon” on Friday December 5th, of one of the following six types of a research paper (sugg. 12 to 15 pages):

1. A study of an effective church leader (or leader group) of the present or past.
2. A study of an effective apostolic congregation (or movement) of the present or past.
3. A report, with analysis, of a specific local-church-based “outreach ministry;” feature the kinds of insights that would inform the “planting” of such a ministry in another church.
4. Delineation of a process, with the essentials of a strategic plan, for moving a specific traditional congregation “from tradition to mission.”
5. A traditional term paper on some specific aspect of leadership theory or congregational mission theory.
6. A study of representative writings from an important writer in one of the fields informing this course--such as Peter Drucker, Warren Bennis, Joel Barker, Lyle Schaller, Leith Anderson, Rick Warren, or the several writers from Willow Creek.

In any of those options, the writer should interface the project with the relevant course resources.

*In the first four options, you will proceed by gathering data on the chosen church, outreach ministry, movement, or leader(s) through field research and/or through library research in relevant sources, preferably multiple sources. The instructor does not want a verbatim of your interview(s), or any other mere data, submitted as a research paper. (It is acceptable to include, as an addendum, the raw data (your notes, quotations, etc.) that you gathered on the church or leader(s) that helped to inform your study; at the top of each sheet, put a) researcher's name at the top left, and b) church or leader's name at top right.)

D. Completion of the course’s final exam on Wednesday December 10, 9:00 to 10:30 (11:00 for English-second-language students). The exam will consist of several questions, each requiring an essay in response. Please bring Blue Books for the final exam.

V. Evaluation

A student’s course grade will be based upon the research paper and the final exam, with the final exam given slightly greater weight. Secondary weight will be given to class involvement and contribution.

Literature
The course presupposes that the student is familiar with, and can draw from, the insights of established Church Growth lore, as reflected in:

Required Textbooks

for masters and doctoral students:

Required Textbooks

for doctoral students who declare a Church and Mission Leadership Major:

Collateral Textbooks on the Emerging Church (masters students—read any two, doctoral students—any four):

Class Sessions

(Subject to Modification)

Note: Several circumstances require the instructor to be out of town on more class days than usual. Two modifications in the class schedule will enable us to completely fulfill the contact hours we expect for a class: A) We will plan to meet until 5:30 (instead of the pre-announced 5:15 end of class) each day the class does meet. B) Students may take the Alpha Conference (Sept. 11) here on campus OR the Willow Creek “Contagious Evangelism” seminar at Southland Christian Church October 10-11.

So, the class will meet Wednesday afternoons, from 2:30 to 5:30, normally in two sessions with break. Class sessions will vary in their manner of presentation. While some sessions will feature some version of the traditional lecture, others will be devoted to processing readings or case studies, and others will feature some of the videos that the management field and church publishers have produced to teach and dramatize the important ideas and paradigms.

Part One: Orientation
